Featured surf kayak professionals are the best in the field, including technical advisor Don Crandall, 1999 World Champions Kenny King and Dave Johnston and boat design pioneer Dick Wold, among others

Paddler's Personal Trainer

54

Kayak Commercial

A workout video designed for all paddling disciplines. It starts with a comprehensive flexibility session, then strengthens the most critical and vulnerable areas of a paddler's body-the shoulders. The program also has a pre-boating warm up that you can use at the water's edge.

PSA Series: Paddle Smart.

Kayak Safety

In a response to a rash of paddling accidents resulting in tragic deaths here in New England, the Blackstone River Valley National Heritage Corridor joined forces with several of our River Partners to develop a river awareness and safety strategy. The strategy included river safety and paddling training, public education and first response rescue protocols for all Rhode Island Blackstone Valley communities' Fire and Rescue Squads. The PSA Series "Paddle Smart" supported that effort.

Rainy Days

20

Kayak Documentary

Rainy Days was a project for a documentary film class at the University of Oregon. It is intended to be an introduction to kayaking for not-yet paddlers while at the same time entertaining for seasoned boaters. It is also meant to offer an alternative to Oregonians' number one winter pastime: whining about the rain. The footage was shot during a two-week period in January 1998

The Breaks of the Mountain: The Russell Fork Gorge

26

Kayak Documentary

A documentary about issues an Appalachian coalmining community faces while developing a tourist economy around a river gorge noted for its whitewater paddling. The video focuses on the Russell Fork of the Big Sandy River as it flows from Haysi, Virginia to Elkhorn City, Kentucky. The documentary looks at the threats the extractive industries of coal and timber present to this rare gorge, explores the promise of a sustainable eco-tourism industry, and looks at the threats that tourism brings to the quality of life in a small town.

A Kayak Adventure in Borneo: A Documentary

52

Kayak Documentary

There have always been people who felt the need to push their personal limits. For some, the wild places of the world and extreme outdoor sports are the only way to quench the thirst for adventure. In Bali Video's new fifty-two minute film, "A Kayak Adventure in Borneo" you will join a group of world-class explorers as they attempt to trans-navigate, by rivers, the third largest island in the World, Borneo. This grueling expedition covers 650 miles; crossing Borneo from the South China Sea in the west to the Sulawesi sea in the east. An adventure film that delves into the minds of the expedition members, explores the history and ethnography of Borneo and takes viewers on a whitewater journey of epic proportions

Team Daft: Disabilities and Finely Tuned.

30

Kayak Documentary

Why can't people with disabilities go on whitewater? No reason not to try! Add the challenge of a multi-day river trip with camping, a classic river in remote Turkey, and finish by competing at the International Project RAFT event, and you really DO have a story to tell. Watch as they and their kayaking buddies explore what was possible-and what wasn't. Distribution to United Kingdom clubs and societies for disabled people courtesy of a grant from the British Canoe Union.

Team Eugene

41

Kayak

If you think Eugene, Oregon is chock-full of hippy peace freaks...you're right! But it's also home to an abnormal number of sick-o-paddlers (some of whom are indeed granola crunching tree huggers). So if you like good paddling, sit back and enjoy these Oregon Playboaters in their natural habitat. "Team Eugene" is basically one-camera, no budget attempt not only to exploit and expose the local Eugene talent, but also to raise some issues and emotions relating to world of kayaking and its inhabitants.

Deliver Me From the Paddlesnake

47

Canoe

This is a study of the Chattooga watershed including the sections 2,3,4, West Fork, Overflow, Warwoman Creek, and the polluted, but awesome Stekoa Creek. Unfortunately, after filtering through six years of tape of the best and the worst paddling from the area, our producer appears to have cracked under the strain. Obsessed with Deliverance and the Paddlesnake, he needs professional help....

Grin Factor 10

27

Kayak/C1/OC1

1999 saw important battles dealing with river access. One that may have been overlooked last year was the issue of Ohiopyle Falls and the rapids above it. For years Ohiopyle Falls, on the Youghiogheny river in Ohiopyle State Park in Pennsylvania, has been illegal to run. For one day last year, November 13th, the falls were declared "legal". Approximately 278 boaters showed up, and 158 stuck around for the race, making it one of the largest kayak races ever held.

This video puts you there at this event, with interviews, and shots of all the action. More importantly, the video was made to promote the work of American Whitewater, and to bring attention to this event and the issues surrounding it.

Tabaze Tour

Kayak

A taste of the extreme in New Zealand and Chile. Some first descents and quality river running. Intense and sweet as all good runs are.

Twitch

34

Kayak

This video profiles the Stohlquist family and their great Stohlquist WaterWare products, and also shows the Stohlquist team tearing up the waves and working the big drops

1999

Silent Thunder: The Legend of TeamC

30

Kayak/Canoe

An in-depth look at a team of boaters the corporate kayak world wouldn't sponsor in a million years. A group that checked their egos at the door long, long ago. The result? A few laughs, a couple of interviews and an elite group of skilled and moderately skilled boaters taking their shot at fame and unfortunately (or fortunately, depending on your view) getting pummeled on some of the country's best whitewater.

Significant Consequences

18

Kayak Documentary

A gripping editorial/documentary that looks at whitewater paddling in 1998, the increased deaths of paddlers, river accidents and the documentation of this. Includes a spellbinding segment of a near death experience of a kayaker in Western Quebec. The video is meant to be both enlightening and thought provoking. The tone is sincere and quite somber.

Whitewater Self Defense

65

Kayak Instruction

Whitewater Self Defense helps kayakers avoid trouble and deal with unexpected problems. The emphasis is "everyday" river safety and rescue, including fundamental skills every whitewater paddler should know. Includes new and proven safety techniques. Contributors include Charlie Walbridge, Ellen Decuir, Kent Ford and over a hundred other paddlers.

La Grande Canyon Whitewater

22

Kayak Documentary

An interesting and entertaining look at Washington State's La Grande Canyon of the Nisqually River. The Nisqually is one of several runs around the country that has been opened to boating through the AWA's intervention into the Federal hydroelectric relicensing procedure. This informal video details La Grande's class 4 and 5 rapids in the depths of a spectacular vertical walled canyon while providing a brief background on the project.

The video covers the basic survival skills necessary for any type of kayak surfing. It covers wave reading, launching, landing, surfing, and safety issues. Key points are illustrated with exciting video footage.

River Spirits 29

"River Spirits" chronicles the journey of two paddlers up Dutch Creek (the headwaters of the Columbia River) across the snow and ice of the Purcell Mountains and down the canyon of Carney Creek into Kootenay Lake. It was produced to promote conservation of wild rivers and aided in the inclusion of Dutch and Carney creeks in the Purcell Wilderness Conservancy. Together they comprise 100 km of contiguous natural watershed. The journey of the paddlers is paralleled by the that of Yawonek, the water spirit of the native Ktunaxa people, from the Columbia River over the mountains to its ancestral home in Kootenay Lake.

'96 Yakin' With The Monkeyboy 11

An homage to river fun in a kayak. Scenes from the Little River, Tellico and Ocoee of Tennessee. The Kettle, St Louis, Manitou, Vermillion of Minnesota. Also video of the Clearwater and Lachsa of Idaho. It's about the rush, the thrill and the excitement of the juicy run or the great play spot. What ever it is, it's about people having fun on the river.

Fallin Down 37

Here is the low down on the new age of kayaking straight from the lip! 'Fallin Down' is about verticality on the creek and in the hole. You'll see four first descents, recognize some old favorites, squirm at the wrecks and be entertained for the total jammin' 37 minutes. Filmed in the eastern US and Canada, Colorado and Washington State.

The Huron River 13

The video documents a celebration of the Huron river in southeast Michigan. A canoeing journey of 125 miles over seven days with 75 participants. Great Lakes Paddlers' members provided expertise for safety coordination on and off the river, group management, camping and food arrangements, and of course, river guides. This event was first held in 1993 and has continued each May. We are looking forward to a 5th year anniversary in 1998. Join us!

Beyond The Missionary Position 22

The gloves are off and the boaters are swimming. Buzzellmania Productions heads west to Colorado's Big South then back east with the Horizontal Extreme Team on New York's Bottom Moose. Also, as a bonus, kayaking superstar Corn Anderson attempts the 108-foot vertical Hardwood State Park Bridge Falls!

KAVU Day 32

The film highlights Dan Gavere and friends on rivers throughout the Western United States, Chile, and Europe with their search for the ultimate KAVU DAY: Klear, Above, Visibility, Unlimited. This video is special because it's not sold anywhere (at least it shouldn't be) - it's given! We made this video in support of paddle sports, paddle sport events, dealers, and most importantly the rivers. Whitewater is something that we here in Seattle live and breath, so I hope you enjoy the video as much as we did making it.

Retendo! 33

This video unlocks the secrets to cartwheels, squirt turns, and an array of exciting moves. You'll learn all the new moves like Whippets, McTwists, Splitwheels and Screwups. Animation and other visual tools explain and simplify the most complex moves. Featuring rodeo stars: Scott Shipley, Chris Spelius, Marc Lyle, and others. Hosted by Kent Ford.
